

“Scientific excellence for decisions that make a difference”

About SNH Global

SNH Global (Science for Nutrition and Health Global, S.L.) is a scientific consulting company specializing in research, knowledge dissemination, and training in Food Science, Nutrition, and other health-related fields.

Our mission is to connect scientific professionals in these areas worldwide with organizations and companies seeking evidence-based solutions.

Founded and led by experts with extensive experience in the sector, SNH Global combines academic rigor with a practical business approach to deliver services of the highest quality.

Scientific and Technical Services

At SNH Global, we offer a broad range of scientific consulting services tailored to the needs of companies and institutions in the fields of food, nutrition, and health.

Our main areas of expertise include:

- Scientific Communication and Information:
 - Creating blog posts and other online content with scientific insights
 - Developing scientific communication plans for national or international project calls
 - Disseminating results of studies and scientific projects
 - Providing other tailored scientific communication services

- Tailored Scientific Reports and Documents:
 - Preparing systematic reviews for internal use or scientific publication
 - Writing monographs
 - Producing scientific and technical reports for public or private purposes

- Scientific Studies:
 - Designing and implementing research studies (full or partial)
 - Providing methodological consulting
 - Analyzing data, developing storytelling, and disseminating findings
 - Supporting publication in peer-reviewed scientific journals

- Organization of Scientific Events (in-person, online, or hybrid)
 - Planning and managing events in full or in part
 - Designing scientific programs
 - Overseeing logistical aspects
 - Selecting, engaging, and coordinating leading international experts to ensure the success and quality of each event

Scientific Excellence and Global Reach

Quality and scientific rigor are the hallmarks of everything we do. SNH Global has a top-level multidisciplinary team composed of internationally recognized professionals, including nutritionists, dietitians, physicians, food technologists, epidemiologists, biochemists, biostatisticians, and other specialists.

This global expert network allows us to approach each project with the highest technical competence, integrating the latest evidence and validated methodologies.

Collaboration and Professional Community

Beyond providing services to public and private entities, SNH Global serves as a hub for scientific professionals interested in collaborating on projects in food, nutrition, and health.

We foster a community where researchers and experts can join our projects, contribute their knowledge, or develop their own ideas with the support of a multidisciplinary organization.

This philosophy of open collaboration ensures that we always bring together the best specialists for each initiative.

Our proposal

SNH Global is available to support companies, institutions, and organizations seeking a reliable, flexible, and high-level scientific partner for the development of projects in food, nutrition, and health.

We would be delighted to arrange a meeting to better understand your specific needs and provide tailored solutions.

Sincerely

The SNH Global Team

